

FREE Lunchtime Teambuilding & Leadership Seminars

Australian research has shown that our organisations want leaders who: have a go; challenge and change the rules; demonstrate a “can do” attitude; are determined and tenacious; and, are team oriented. (1)

American business studies have shown that leadership and teambuilding training is the most cost-effective and self-generating form of business improvement. (2)

Many organisations and businesses are discovering the truth about how important teambuilding and leadership skills are to develop.

What are you doing to help you and your organisation get these results?

Do you want some free ideas? Why not further develop, challenge and refresh your teambuilding and leadership skills at one or a few of these complimentary seminars? Bring along your lunch and enjoy a cup of coffee while you participate in an energising discussion, and take part in a fun and relevant experiential activity. Take away some useful lessons and experiences for your workplace.

Ric Leahy is the Director of People Teams Leaders Pty Ltd, a small business development company, that helps organisations develop their leaders, managers and supervisors.
